In this case, the predominant attitude of the soul becomes one of peaceful waiting. John speaks. The framework of his life was that of Spanish Catholic orthodoxy. He was a mystic, a poet and a man who understood in great technical depth the spiritual path of the Catholic.

Thus, as well as being detached from creatures, the soul now learns the need to that men knew how great a blessing, that of the divine light, this their blindness, the result of their desires, robs them of, and how great the evils they daily fall into, because they do not mortify. John of the Cross uses one of his poems to frame this discussion of progress in the spiritual life like in Dark Night of the Soul Ascent of Mt Carmel is built on a poem about a Dark Night of the Soul where we have the three 'dark nights': the dark night of the senses, the dark night of faith, and the dark night of God.
